

Sheena G

Portland-based Urban Fusion artist Sheena G has created a new sound with her debut album The First Class, both Latin and American markets.

A powerful and creative American/Latina woman and business savvy to boot. She is a natural born leader and credits both her El Salvadoran mother and her German father for her drive.

Shortly after being born in Portland, OR, Sheena moved to El Salvador, attending La Escuela Americana and enjoying the Central American lifestyle. This is the root for her personal sound and Latin mix.

Returning to America at a young age, Sheena was starting her own ventures. After dancing and modeling, Sheena opened a flower shop and an espresso stand and by the 2000's she had started a successful chain of gentlemen clubs in Portland. Sheena is a 'get it done' kind of woman, her gushing character speaks volumes for her. When she enters the room put on your seat belt.

In 2009 she released a track with E40 called 'Smell the Money', her anthem to the women of the entertainment industry. With this her path was set, there was a clear opportunity to address a demographic so far largely overlooked and rarely updated.

Sheena G

Sheena G's music is best described as a Musica Urbana. When asked about the title of her album, Sheena G explains the double meaning: "It's first class because I remain a student, and this is my first of many albums. But also we put everything into the quality of this album; the musicians, the studio, and all the marketing is first class. Released by SGM Records. She has songs performed as a duo with Mr. Nota which is a powerful fusion of Panama meets El Salvador with a twist of American swag.

Now she's back in the studio with new material. She has discovered a largely untapped and overlooked huge market of Latin Americans hungry for change or update. Incredibly, this is not confined to North America, exporting her sound to South America and the colossal market awaiting is a given. The whirlwind that is the energy of Sheena G has just began but its moving fast.
